

Day Visitors at Red Beet Row

Welcome! We're happy to have you! Before you travel to our farm, please read below so you can be as comfortable as possible.

What to Bring

Drinking water. We have no potable water on-hand

Good shoes/boots. If weather is wet, you MUST wear mud boots or shoes that can get soaked/trashed.

Protection from Sun: Hat, umbrella, scarf, etc

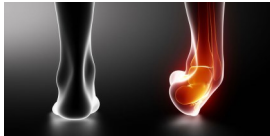

Everything you need to be comfortable outside the whole time you are with us – CHECK WEATHER

No Dogs. It's not an impossibility, but we need to talk first.

What to Watch Out For

We hope to become increasingly accessible as we grow, but we aren't there yet. Be prepared for:

Uneven (often narrow) gravel or sod (often mud) walking paths
Buildings under construction
Farm tools lying around
No real shelter from outside

Lots of outdoor allergens

Poison ivy

Bees

Farm animals

Pets (dogs, cats)

Accommodations (or lack of!)

Primitive Outhouse.

We have no public-approved flush toilet facilities. We do have perfectly sanitary dry toilets in our outhouses, and hand-washing stations. All our water is unfiltered and untreated. Do not drink this water or put it in your mouth or eyes. Cleaning with it is fine - use enviro-friendly soap only, please.

Limited Parking.

8-10 vehicles fit comfortably. We can accommodate more, but need to talk first.

Tread Lightly.

Our small farm is teeming with life! But it is a delicate balance. Please help us!

Keep your footprint in check:

- Stay on the walking paths – sometimes they are hard to see!
- Keep vehicles on the compacted driveway. Preferably, leave them parked up front.
- Take everything with you that you brought, including garbage

Questions?

Contact us with any questions at all: redbeetrow@yahoo.com, 440-316-BEET(2338)

LIABILITY WAIVER for Red Beet Row

I have asked permission to enter onto the property known as Red Beet Row, a working educational farm owned by Stephanie Blessing. The purpose of my requesting such permission is to study sustainable growing practices and permaculture design. I recognize and understand that Red Beet Row is partially a wild habitat, and partially under construction. I recognize and understand that by entering unto this property I am subjecting myself to dangers and perils, some of which I am aware of and some of which I may not be aware of. I agree to enter the property at my own risk, and fully accept all risk of injury. I agree to hold Red Beet Row, its volunteers, owner, agents, and affiliates harmless from any liability for any injury I may suffer while on the premises, whether said injury is due to negligence of any person associated with Red Beet Row, the condition of the premises, or any other cause.

I specifically waive any liability and agree to hold harmless and indemnify Red Beet Row, its volunteers, owner, agents, and affiliates for any injury to me or my property. I will defend any suit brought by any other person on account of such injuries, including injuries caused by the negligence of Red Beet Row's volunteers, owner or agents, or arising out of the conditions of the premises.

This release is binding on my estate and heirs and any person authorized to bring suit on my behalf such as a guardian ad litem.

Agreements: While visiting Red Beet Row, I agree to care for the environment and my own health and safety by:

- Walking, parking, and camping only in designated areas
- Drinking only water identified as potable
- Eliminating body "wastes" in dry toilet facilities, per instructions inside facilities
- Disposing of all "trash," "recycling," and "compost" appropriately in marked bins
- Respecting all individuals regardless of gender, sexual preference, handicap, creed or color
- Cooperating for the good of the whole
- Accepting the farm's no-pet-policy, and limited infrastructure and safety concerns outlined in "What to Expect at Red Beet Row"

Print Name Clearly

Email Address

Phone Number

Street Address, City, State, Zip

Signature

Date